

Webuser
UK's best-selling internet magazine

Buy the inspirational book by Dina Rabinovitch
ALL PROFITS GO TO THE CTRT
APPEAL FOR CANCER RESEARCH CTRT

Home News Product reviews Website reviews Forums Competitions Subscribe  GO

MOST WANTED

Your daily insight into the latest hardware and gadgets

« Pure Siesta | Main

FRIDAY, JULY 20, 2007

DataWind PocketSurfer2

If you're worried about racking up huge bills surfing the web using a mobile connection, then Datawind's PocketSurfer2 should ease your mind.

Free web access is included with the device, so you don't need to pay extra every month just to use it. You get 20 hours a month included for the first year, and then it will cost you £39.95 to renew it for a further year. Compression technology is included to speed up web surfing, reducing page load times to around seven seconds.

It has a half height VGA screen, Qwerty keyboard and supports full HTML and Java. It's small enough to carry around with you, measuring just 152x75x15mm and weighing 174g. The built in battery will last for up to five hours of web surfing or five days in standby.

The Pocketsurfer2 will be available from 16 August for £179.99, see DataWind's site for more information.

Posted by Will Head on Friday, July 20, 2007 at 10:27 AM in Mobile Phones | Permalink